Financial

Estimated OB package fee for normal vaginal delivery: $ 4221.00

This fee may vary depending on i.e. complications, c-section, v-bac delivery, etc. In addition, this fee is an estimate only and it is subject to change (i.e., our fee schedule does usually change once per year).

A separate charge is submitted to insurance for any non-routine office visits or care exceeding 13 visits. Any other procedures or tests that are needed are not included in this package. This includes, but is not limited to: ultrasounds, lab tests, and NSTs.

*** Please note - This fee is for Women's Care of Wisconsin only *****

In addition you will be billed by the hospital, anesthesiologist, pediatrician (or family doctor), etc. depending on what care you have received.

*If you do not have insurance, we require that you pay for services as you are seen. We also request that your OB package be paid in full by the 8th month. This can be done by making monthly payments and will be discussed with our credit manager.

*If by your fourth month of pregnancy (20 weeks), you have not provided us with your insurance card, proof of Medical Assistance coverage, or the required monthly payments, you will need to seek alternative care.

*If you have questions regarding the fee(s), please call the office and one of our office staff will be happy to assist you.

Please note: The usual hospital stay for delivery as per most insurance companies is 2 days. Many insurance companies require pre-certification of any hospital admission and will only allow a certain number of days for a hospital stay. It is your responsibility to notify your insurance company of your due date and to obtain the information of how long you are allowed for the hospital stay.
